DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Jacob Diller House is a frame two and one-half story ell shaped Carpenter Gothic residence which faces south from the north side of Route 26 in Mount Pleasant.

The principle facade of the building is five bays wide. The main entrance, a replaced front door with single light transom and two pane side lights covered by storm windows is located in the third bay.

Occupying the remaining bays on the first level and each bay on the second level are 2/2 windows covered with storm windows with replaced shutters. A Victorian Gothic 4/2 window is located in the center gable.

A five bay wide one story frame porch with chamfered columns and dentiled cornice with decorative brackets and scrolls extends across the front of the building. The entire frame structure is covered with grey asbestos siding and built on a low random stone foundation.

A three bayed window with inset paneling and dentiled trim extends on the west side of the first level. A side entrance also located on the west side is accommodated by a one bay wide frame columned porch. Extending to the rear of the building is an original two story rear addition with two story open porch. The first floor of the porch has been enclosed.

The entire building is covered by a standing seam tin roof with plain boxed cornice with frieze and return. Four original corbeled brick chimneys rise from the north, east, west gable ends, and center of addition.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Jacob Diller House was built in the late 1870's. The land on which the house sits was obtained from Theodore Burkhart, executor of John Newport. The parcel of land bought by Jacob Diller incorporated five tracts of land, "The Mistake Rectified", "Final", "Middle Plantation", "The Plow" and the tract "The Resurvey on Mackey's Luck."¹

Jacob Diller was a prominent member of the community. He was the secretary of the Frederick and Liberty Turnpike Road Company. A large landowner, Diller was the owner of land deeded to the Reformed Church for the erection of their edifice in 1870. The Diller House is significant as an example of a Carpenter's Gothic structure and as the home of a prominent resident of the Mount Pleasant community.
